Statement of Affiliated Council’s Purpose and Goals

The Council for the Study of Community Colleges (CSCC) is an affiliate of the American Association of Community Colleges (AACC) and a project of the Center for the Study of Community Colleges. Council members include university-based researchers and community college practitioners who further scholarship on the community college enterprise. The purposes of the Council are to:

- contribute to the development of preservice and in-service education for community college professionals;
- conduct and disseminate research pertaining to community colleges;
- serve as a forum for dialogue between university professors, graduate students, and community college practitioners who study community colleges;
- disseminate information about related conferences and events;
- provide research and other services to the American Association of Community Colleges and its affiliate councils;
- recognize outstanding service to, research in, and publication about community college education; and
- provide a unified and formal base of participation for CSCC members in AACC affairs.

Affiliated Council Program Activities for the Current Year
July 1, 2012 - June 30, 2013

The most important activity of the current year for CSCC was the selection of a national office and executive director. Effective July 1, 2013, CSCC will be housed in the Bill J. Priest Center for Community College Education at the University of North Texas. Beverly Bower, director of the Bill J. Priest Center, will also serve as the Executive Director of CSCC. For numerous years, UCLA has served as the home for CSCC and the organization also wishes to thank the institution and Art Cohen and Rick Wagoner for their service.

The Council for the Study of Community Colleges (CSCC) in fulfillment of our mission to “provide research and other services to the American Association of Community Colleges and its affiliate councils” organized members of the council to prepare a focused response to each of the recommendations in the AACC Reclaiming the American Dream, Community Colleges and the Nation’s Future: A Report from the 21st Century Commission on the Future of Community Colleges. Eight authors contributed to the report, including researchers and practitioners who have extensive experience and expertise in community college research, with specific expertise related to their assigned recommendation. Each of the authors reviewed relevant empirical and theoretical research literature to comment on the overall recommendation and the implementation strategies. The report was shared with AACC and with each of the 21st century working groups.
Approved by AACC Board of Directors, April 20, 2013

In 2013, CSCC named their service award for Arthur M Cohen and Florence B Brawer in recognition for their long-term service to community colleges and the Council.

CSCC held its 55th annual conference, immediately prior to the AACC convention in San Francisco.

CSCC continued to recognize research regarding community colleges in 2013—
- Luke J Wood, San Diego State University, received the Emerging Scholar Award
- Two individuals were recognized with the Senior Scholar Award: Richard M. Romano, Broome Community College and Pamela Eddy, College of William and Mary
- Lynn Neault, San Diego Community College District, received the Dissertation of the Year Award.
