THANK CONGRESS FOR FUNDING PELL GRANTS!

Visit the Pell Grant Action Center Today

Recent legislation to raise the federal debt ceiling cut spending for most programs, with only one exception: Pell Grants. The Budget Control Act of 2011 provided $17 billion over the next two years for the Pell Grant program. Without this funding, the Pell Grant faced almost certain cuts and fewer students would have been eligible to receive grants. However, the fight is not over, and you can help to keep Pell Grants where they are now by thanking your representatives and senators for these funds.

Go to the Pell Grant Action Center (www.pellgrantactioncenter.org), where with just a few clicks you can send your members of Congress a message of thanks for funding Pell Grants.
