American Association of Community Colleges

Issue # 067

Dear Tina,

This week, I met with the 32-member AACC Board of Directors during our annual board retreat and board meeting today. They come from rural and urban colleges, from all parts of the country. They are eager to govern and to represent you. It's time-consuming work, and we are so grateful for their service.

MUST READ

“Atypical Paths to the Presidency”

Community college CEOs who started their careers in a completely different, non-education field say that experience gives them a different, broader perspective on higher education leadership. Read more about it in Community College Daily.

“Filling the Need for Health Care Interpreters”

A new Health Care Interpreter Certificate program at Howard Community College addresses a growing need for interpreters, according to this 21st Century Center post.

MUST DO

Submit a Proposal for the 2017 AACC Annual Convention

Beginning August 2, AACC will begin accepting proposal and award submissions. Information, including proposal guidelines, awards' applications, and other important convention materials, will be available online on August 1. The 2017 theme is "Community Colleges: America's North Star." The convention will take place in New Orleans, Louisiana, April 22–25.

MUST KNOW

Upcoming Leadership Training

AACC will hold two leadership training institutes this fall. The AACC John E. Roueche Future Leaders Institute (FLI) and the Future Presidents' Institute will run October 9–13 in Las Vegas, Nevada. AACC will begin accepting applications on August 5. Keep an eye on the website for updates.

Proposed Regulations for Distance Education Programs

The U.S. Department of Education published proposed regulations for institutions offering distance education programs. The new rules would require the college "to be authorized by each state in which the institution enrolls students, if such authorization is required by the state." More details are available on AACC's website.

Where's Walter

July 16–19, 2016, I was pleased to join the Presidents Academy Executive Committee for the 2016 PASI in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

I participated in the AACC Annual Board Retreat, July 26–29 in Washington, DC.
